

Claridge Strategies, LLC is a boutique consulting firm for companies that require turnaround or M&A expertise. Our Principals are unique in that each has both hands-on and consulting experience as a senior executive, a contractor of consultants and as a consultant serving a number of companies in diversified industries.

Our Principals are experts in their own particular field. We hire no “trainees” that learn your business and ours on your budget.

We emphasize frequent and effective communications. The Client continually has access to the team-leader working on his account. We exploit modern technology to speed the flow of information and decision-making, saving you cost and accelerating the solution of your issues.

A review of your unique attributes and circumstances can often uncover a strategy for evolution to better times. Solutions can encompass corporate relationships, financial structure, better use of intellectual properties, a redesigned organization, divestiture or acquisition strategies or merely the identification of a methodology for coping with the demand on resources for internal growth.

Claridge will review and analyze your current situation, without charge, in order to scope the solution and make recommendations as to various alternatives. Proposed solutions may or may not involve Claridge Strategies. We are willing to invest a day or two in learning your situation to earn the opportunity to gain a client.

Often, the first step toward a solution is recognizing that others have confronted the same issues you are facing and have done so with success. We seek only opportunities to guide and assist. Give us a call and that opportunity. It may be mutual.
