

Capital Sourcing

Claridge Strategies diligently cultivates relationships with both the investment community and with the owners of operating companies throughout North America. As a result, we have a vast network of relationships with venture capital and private equity firms, corporate strategic investors, individual investor groups, banks, equipment finance and high-risk lenders who are ready and able to invest in promising operating companies poised for growth.

If you are seeking capital for growth, recapitalization, or management buyout, we can assist in positioning your company to succeed in securing the appropriate type and amount of capital you require. If necessary, we'll help you refine your business model, strengthen your infrastructure, define your markets, value your business, and prepare a professional presentation for the investment community. We'll introduce and represent you to the appropriate types of investors for your business, negotiate investment terms and structure, and secure the capital that you need to succeed.

If you are an institutional investor who is seeking investment candidates, we add value by sourcing and pre-screening opportunities for you. We strive to understand your investment profile in detail, so that we only present companies in which you have an inherent interest. When we introduce you to a company, you can be assured that we have conducted initial due diligence to know that it matches your profile and is a company worthy of your attention. Thereafter, we are available for the long-term, to assist in any way necessary to ensure that your investment is a success.
